NOTE: The estimated total for students who elect to make their own flight arrangements is approximately $13,000. Alternate housing options and costs may vary. The estimated total for students who do not reside in Fresenius University housing may exceed $12,600. Federal and/or state financial aid cannot be applied toward independently arranged airfare and/or alternate housing arrangements.

Berkeley College Finances

Berkeley College Institutional Aid cannot be applied to study abroad programs. Institutional aid includes all Berkeley College grants, scholarships, and the Berkeley College Challenge Program.

Students will pay the Fresenius tuition directly to Berkeley College. Berkeley College will remit your tuition to Fresenius.

You will be charged the Fresenius tuition rate ($7,500), airfare arranged through Berkeley College (approximately $800), housing fees ($2,400) and the Berkeley College Administrative Fee ($400). When your financial aid disburses, it will be applied towards these charges. (If you make your own flight and/or housing arrangements, your financial aid shall not be applied towards those costs.) Your federal financial aid disbursement does not occur until week four (4)*** of the semester. If there is any credit balance on your account, it will be refunded to you (the student)** by your preferred method (ie: check).

A student's enrollment in this approved study abroad program for credit by Berkeley College may be considered enrollment at Berkeley College for purposes of applying for federal student financial aid. On your account statement, you will see charges for Berkeley College's full-time tuition and fees. These amounts will be credited through an institutional scholarship (with the exception of the $400 Berkeley College Administrative Fee). "Berkeley College Fresenius Study Abroad Scholarship" will appear on your account statement.
